CONGRESSIONAL.

Extra Session.
In the senate on the 4th, after the approval of the journal and the introduction of a few bills of minor importance, the silver purchase repeal bill was taken up and discussed by Senators Butler and Blackburn, each pleading for a compromise of some sort. In the house the question of war claims was brought up and discussed. A substitute for the election laws repeal bill was introduced, the northern democrats, after an informal conference, deciding that the Tucker bill was too sweeping, and this substitute was formulated to meet the objections.

The senate on the 5th spent the entire day behind closed doors in the consideration of executive business. The greater part of the time was devoted to a discussion of the alleged violation of the home rule principle in the appointment of men as Indian agents in one state who live in another. In the house a number of bills of minor importance were passed. The federal election laws repeal bill was then taken up and Mr. Murray addressed the house in opposition to the measure.

In the senate on the 6th a resolution was introduced for a special committee on the improvement of the banking system of the country, which was referred to the finance committee. The silver purchase repeal bill was taken up and Senator Cull addressed the senate in opposition to the measure. In the house, after the reading of the journal, the federal election bill was taken up and Messrs. Hainer, Hicks and Ray denounced the pending measure and Mr. Brookshire defended it.

On the 7th, after debate on the silver repeal bill in the senate, Senator Voorhees gave notice that on the 11th he should ask the senate to continue in session until a vote is taken on the pending measure, and should ask the senate to maintain a quorum until the end of the projected struggle was reached. Debate on the federal election bill was continued in the house.

The time of the senate on the 8th was given up entirely to considering the Sherman silver act. In the house the federal election bill debate was closed.

and 1 second; that of the Valkyrie being 3 hours, 35 minutes and 36 seconds. The wind blew almost half a gale during the last half of the race and the boats came in with decks forward wet with spray. The next race will be Wednesday. It will be a beat to windward, 15 miles and return. Should the Vigilant win again the American's cup will remain here at least another year and the American centerboard will still be the champion yacht of the world.

HONORED IN DEATH.

Irishmen Pay Tribute to the Memory of Charles Stewart Parnell.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—Irishmen from all over the world on Sunday assembled around the grave of Charles Stewart Parnell in Glasnevin cemetery and did honor and reverence to the memory of the great Irish leader. It was the second anniversary of the death of the champion of home rule, and the crowds attending the ceremonies showed very clearly that Ireland has not forgotten the services of Parnell in the cause so dear to the hearts of her sons and daughters. The procession of mourners through the streets of Dublin far exceeded in number and in reverence that of last year upon the same occasion. The admirers of Parnell and the principles he represented took one and a half hours to pass the city hall.

The procession was headed by a black-draped wagon upon which were piled memorial wreaths sent from different parts of the country, as well as several from the United States, Canada and Australia. The independent Irish party of New York sent a handsome floral harp. It was 5 feet high, 8 1/2 feet across and the top was made of green and gold immortelles, enlivened by red flowers of the same kind. The strings were of red immortelles, and across them in white flowers were the words: "Charles Stewart Parnell." Across the base of New York's tribute to the dead leader was the inscription: "In loving memorial from the Irish of New York."

The officials and corporations of the cities of Dublin and Cork attended the ceremonies in state. The streets along the route to the cemetery were packed with men and women and the neighborhood of Glasnevin burial ground was crowded to the utmost. John Parnell, brother of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, and Mrs. Dickinson, his sister, appeared in the parade in a carriage, accompanied by John Redmond, M. P., the Parnellite leader.

At the cemetery the wreaths were placed upon the grave of the beloved statesman. The procession then reformed and returned to the city, the streets being lined with thousands of persons, while every window along the route was filled with persons who displayed mourning emblems.

Disastrous Fire.

WATERLOO, Ia., Oct. 11.—Fire started Monday morning in the business portion of the town of Parkersburg, 25 miles west of this city. The town has no fire protection and the fire was soon beyond control. Waterloo sent help, which succeeded in getting the flames under control after twenty-six business houses were destroyed. The buildings that were destroyed were mostly frame structures, though there were three or four brick blocks among them. The loss is estimated at about $175,000, with insurance from $50,000 to $75,000.

Scrofula in Face and Neck—Blind at Times

Hood's Sarsaparilla Restored Health

"I have been a very great sufferer from scrofula. First, a large bunch came in my neck, growing as big as a good sized apple. The doctor lanced it, and we succeeded in healing it up, but the disease began to appear in my face, which would swell up and affect my eyes. Every morning they were so inflamed and swollen that I was blind. I was in this condition for about a year. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had used a bottle and a half, the swelling in my face had entirely gone down. I have been perfectly cured and am now in good health." WM. ERICK, West Duluth, Minn.
